ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

It is a pleasure to thank those who have made immense contribution to my dissertation by their constant encouragement, guidance and support from the initial to the final and enabled me to enhance an insight and understanding of knowledge of ICT among prospective teachers with respect to different variables.

I wish to express my sincere gratitude towards Dr. N.C. Ojha, for his valuable critical suggestions and timely comments throughout the completion of this work.

My sincere thanks to Prof. H.K. Senapaty (R.I.E.), Bhopal for providing educational facilities. Dr. B. Ramesh Babu, Head of the Department, Education (R.I.E.), who has been generous and supportive with his recommendations and dialogues, in particular. A special tone of gratitude to Dr. Reeta Sharma, Dean of Instructions, and all the faculties of the institute for their, timely, feed backs.

Thanks are also due to the faculties, department of Education, RIE, Bhopal for their constant guidance and support throughout this work.

I am also very grateful to the library staff of the institute for providing study materials required for the completion of this task.

It will be injustice if the investigator fails to thank the In-charge, Psychology Laboratory, Dr. Suniti Khare and other staff of the laboratory who provided me the measuring instruments for different variables, without which this manuscript would not have been taken this shape.

(iv)

I offer my gratefulness to the one and regard to all who have supported me in all respect during the completion of the assignment. Lastly, but of great significance, I avail myself of this opportunity to express a deep sense of gratitude and love to my beloved parents, my motivating siblings and inspiring roommate Shweta Saha, for their mental support, strength and help throughout.

Last but not the least, I am thankful to those who either directly or indirectly help me to complete this work.

I dedicated this dissertation to my parents, who are my world.
